

Sprout City Farms Seasonal Apprentice Job Description

Purpose:

Sprout City Farms (SCF) is looking for individuals able to play an integral role in helping realize its mission and vision: to cultivate educational urban farms that engage and strengthen communities, and establish a network of accessible farms throughout the city that nourish, and are nourished by, their surrounding community. SCF seeded its first urban community farm in 2011 in response to growing interest in utilizing social and physical resources to create healthier, more resilient local food communities. Since that time, the Denver Green School (DGS) Community Farm has successfully transformed an acre of underutilized land in a public schoolyard into fertile ground that produces 5-6 tons of healthy food annually and nourishes thousands of people in the school and SE Denver community. In 2014, SCF expanded its efforts in partnership with the City of Lakewood to a second 1-acre site, the Mountair Park (MAP) Community Farm located on the grounds of Mountair Park at the corner of 13th and Depew St. in Lakewood, and in 2016, we broke ground on the third site, the Dahlia Campus for Health and Well-Being in partnership with the Mental Health Center of Denver located at 33rd & Dahlia in NE Denver. In 2018, we are seeking an apprentice to help implement operations and programs at MAP and Dahlia (1 apprentice per site) under the direction of each site's Farm Manager. This is a great opportunity for individuals interested in being more involved in local food production and/or aiming to develop a skill set while moving toward full-time employment in the field. As a developing nonprofit, our small staff works closely together to implement the goals of the organization as SCF continues to grow. We are looking for qualified candidates to spearhead the growth needed to take Sprout City Farms to the next level!
